- The Saxonian State Ministry of Economic (Germany) supports the co-operation between companies of Saxony and the CEEC countries. The Republic of Estonia wants to introduce European standards for environmental conservation and is interested in using experiences, in particular those made during the German re-unification.

Main tasks:

- Investigation of administrative and technical programmes with emphasis in environmental conservation.
- Training programme in technology, organisation, administration, legal basis, and financing of water supply, sewage treatment and treatment of dangerous waste from the past.
- Identification of problems arising during restructuring of state facilities into private enterprises.
